The Roadends Project

The Uist Sculpture Trail provides a pathway for exploration via a series of seven commissioned works by four artists. The artists were assisted by four local communities who helped to provide locations and ideas. All the sculptures aim to encourage people to visit some of the beautiful and less visited parts of the islands. A rough guide to location is given by the lines drawn from 'End of road sculpture' marked on the map.

Kisimul Castle sits on a rocky island just off Castlebay and was built around 1039. Since that time, Kisimul has been the stronghold of Clan MacNeil. It is completely surrounded by water and has never fallen to an enemy. Kisimul was abandoned in 1838 when the island was sold, and the castle's condition deteriorated. The castle remains, along with most of the island of Barra, were purchased by the chief of Clan MacNeil in 1937, who in 2001 leased Kisimul Castle to Historic Scotland for 1000 years for the annual sum of £1 and a bottle of whisky. The boat trip from Castlebay jetty to the castle takes 5 minutes.
